The Society Opera.

The interest of society is centered largely upon the production of the society opera, "The Tourist." The rehearsals are demanding the greater share of the time of many a matron and maid and they feel that their efforts will be rewarded as the success of the affair is a surety. Those who have been allotted leading roles have been heard often in musical entertainments and as many of them have taken part in similar productions these in charge have no fear that any stage fright will be in evidence. Aside from the principals there will be a large number of attractive young ladies in the chorus who will add to the beauty of the ensemble.

Miss Sarah Lucas Hostess for the Card Party.

On Wednesday afternoon Miss Sarah Lucas was hostess for the Card Club at her home on Lunalilo street. The prizes, boxes of correspondence cards were taken by Mrs. Morris and Mrs. Gerald Johnson. Among those present were: Mrs. Gerald Johnson, Mrs. Morris, Mrs. Harry Wilder, Miss Florence Hoffman, Miss Emma Waldman, Mrs. Adams, Miss McCorriston and Miss Sarah Lucas.

Judge and Mrs. William Whitney Entertain.

Miss Alice Cooke and Miss Beatrice Castle were the complimented guest at an enjoyable dance last evening given by Judge and Mrs. William L. Whitney at their home on Dole street.

Graceful branches of bamboo and ropes of white flowered vines formed an artistic background for the huge begonia-filled jardiniere that were in evidence in the ball room.

As the affair was given in honor of two of the members of the younger set the guests with few exceptions were members of that set.

The Juvenile Bostonians Spend a Christmas mid Snow and Ice.

A letter from "Mother" Lang of the Juvenile Bostonians told of the Christmas spent by the company in Minnesota. Though there was ice and snow about the city and the young folks were forced to wear heavy clothing they tried to make their Christmas as Hawaiian as possible. Mrs. Lang wrote of the celebration in the following manner: "About seven o'clock Christmas evening, didn't you hear the faint strain of Aloha Oe? Surely they must have reached you. After a toast had been said for our Honolulu friends friends Miss Helen Thom sank the first few notes of the song very sweetly and sweetly. Soon all of the old members joined in, and the roof fairly shook with the tremulous beautiful melody—oh it never sounded so sweet."

Mrs. Lang went on to say that the song was enjoyed by many people, some who had been in Honolulu and by others who have never visited the beautiful isles. She said that "Aloha Oe" seemed rather sad for the occasion but when Doce Canfield produced her ukulele and rendered the "Honolulu Tomboy," and a number of similar melodies the company who were here a short time ago brightened.

Honolulu Boys Entertained in the East.

Over sixty Honolulu boys and girls who are attending schools and colleges around Boston were entertained by Miss Little, who is a former resident of Honolulu, and who visited here last spring. The young people were taken to the woods on a picnic where they enjoyed an old-fashioned dinner many of them were experiencing their first winter where the ground was snow-covered, and the greater part of the day was spent in making snow and tossing snow balls.

Covers were laid for Mrs. Luther Severance, Miss Helen Severance, Mrs. Culick, Mrs. Giles Gere, Mrs. C. B. Hofstad of Kauai and Mrs. James Gibb.

Freak Dances Threaten Washington.

WASHINGTON, January 1.—The "Bunny Hug," "Turkey Trot" and other modern dances threaten to play hob with the plans of the committee charged with making arrangements for the Presidential inaugural ball of Wilson. As a social feature the stock of the inaugural ball has been below par for many years. As a practical institution designed to produce funds for the inaugural celebration, the ball has been regarded as indispensable.

The ministers of Washington and many statesmen say now unless assurances be given that the "Bunny Hug" and "Turkey Trot" shall be interdicted there will be no inaugural ball in 1913. When this news was conveyed to members of the inaugural committee each and every one of them took a trip in an airship. They had been proceeding on cold lines, and these called for an inaugural ball, tickets to which were to cost $5 each, and yield, all told, the $100,000 or so necessary.

Members of the inaugural committee declare if the ball is cut out Uncle Sam will have to foot the bills. They do not believe it would be possible to finance the affair unless they could give assurance that the subscriptions be returned in accordance with the time-honored tradition. Members of the inaugural committee are willing to prohibit the "Turkey Trot" and "Bunny Hug," but have doubts whether such prohibition could be made effective.

King Manuel May Wed His Cousin.

MUNICH, January 1.—The latest announcement in regard to a bride which the dowagers are to provide for Manuel of Portugal was made today. It is said he is to marry his cousin, Princess Augustine Victoria, daughter of William of Hohenzollern. Manuel has been paying repeated visits to all the relatives of the young Princess. She is the only Roman Catholic among the Hohenzollerns. She is but 22 years of age and is said to be a great beauty.

Reception at the Home of Governor and Mrs. Frear.

An unusually large number of townsfolk as well as tourists were present at the reception at the Governor's home on Monday afternoon. In the absence of Governor Frear, Acting Governor and Mrs. Mott-Smith received with Mrs. Frear who was also assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Willott of Stockton, California.

The bougainvillea branches which are so beautiful at this time of the year were used in the decorating and great branches of were seen both in the reception room and in the lanai. Mrs. Luther Severance of Hilo, Mr. Frank T. Dillingham and Mrs. W. W. Hall assisted by Miss Juliet Atherton and Miss Muriel Howatt served refreshments.

The afternoon was unusually pleasant and the majority of the callers lingered for some time talking with old friends and meeting strangers in the city. Some among those who called were, Mr. and Mrs. Zeno K. Myers, Mrs. Arthur Richardson, Mrs. Egbert A. Roberts, Mrs. Percy Martyn Pond, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Hitchcock, Mrs. Arthur E. Alredge, Mrs. G. Fred Lamb, Mrs. E. B. Hyde, of Spokane, Mrs. Boggs of Pittsburgh, Mrs. Henry Bucknell, Mrs. William H. Hoogs, Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Cooke, Jr., Mr.
